OUTLINE

	Page
PREFACE	V
TABLE OF CASES	XXI
TABLE OF STATUTES	XXXVII
Introduction. The Development of Labor and Employment Arbitration	1
A. Definition of the Concept	1
B. Origins and Development	3
C. The Arbitration Profession	8
PART I. LABOR ARBITRATION
Chapter I. Arbitration Procedure	11
A. Contractual Requirements	11
1. In General	11
2. The Submission Agreement	12
3. The Arbitration Clause	13
B. Initiating Arbitration	16
1. The Demand for Arbitration	16
2. The Reply	17
C. Types of Arbitration Systems	18
1. The Single Permanent Arbitrator System	18
2. The Permanent Panel System	22
3. The Temporary Arbitrator System	22
D. Selecting the Arbitrator	23
1. The Arbitration Profession	23

Page

D. Selecting the Arbitrator—Continued
  2. Methods of Selection ---- 25
  3. Learning About An Arbitrator ---- 28
  4. Appointment ---- 33
E. Advocates in Arbitration ---- 34
F. Preparing for Arbitration ---- 35
  1. The Grievance Procedure ---- 35
  2. Discovery ---- 38
  3. Preparing the Evidence ---- 41
G. The Arbitration Hearing ---- 42
  1. Time and Place ---- 42
  2. Record of the Hearing ---- 43
  3. Swearing Witnesses ---- 43
  4. Order of Presentation ---- 44
H. Post–Hearing Procedure ---- 47
  1. Briefs ---- 47
  2. The Award; Finality ---- 49
  3. Costs ---- 51
I. Summary Evaluation of Labor Arbitration: Time and Expense ---- 52

Chapter II. Variations on Traditional Labor Arbitration ---- 55
A. Expedited Arbitration ---- 55
B. Compulsory Arbitration ---- 60
C. Advisory Arbitration and Fact–Finding ---- 66
D. Interest Arbitration ---- 69
  1. In General ---- 69
  2. The Private Sector ---- 70
  3. The Public Sector ---- 74
  4. Criteria ---- 76
  5. Final–Offer Arbitration ---- 80

Page

Chapter III. Application of Arbitration to New Situations ---- 83
A. The Public Sector ---- 83
1. The Federal Government ---- 83
2. State and Local Governments ---- 87
B. Higher Education ---- 89
C. Professional Sports ---- 91
D. Airlines ---- 94

Chapter IV. The Legal Status of Labor Arbitration ---- 98
A. At Common Law ---- 98
B. Statutes Before the Taft–Hartley Act ---- 100
1. Early State Laws on Labor Arbitration 100
2. Federal Legislation for Railway Labor Disputes ---- 101
3. Other Federal Laws Before 1947 ---- 102
4. Modern State Arbitration Laws ---- 103
C. Section 301 of the Taft–Hartley Act ---- 106
1. The Language of Section 301 ---- 106
2. The Lincoln Mills Case ---- 107
3. An Introduction to the Relationship Between the Arbitrator and the Courts: The Steelworkers Trilogy ---- 109
4. Section 301 and the Norris–LaGuardia Act: Boys Markets and Later Developments ---- 117
D. Section 301's Preemptive Effect ---- 125

Page

Chapter V. The Relationships Between Arbitrators, the NLRB, and the Courts ---- 129
A. Arbitrability ---- 129
1. Substantive Arbitrability ---- 130
2. Procedural Arbitrability ---- 143
B. Arbitrators and External Law ---- 144
1. The Theories ---- 147
2. The Application ---- 150
C. The NLRB and the Arbitration Process ---- 152
1. Introduction ---- 152
2. Post–Arbitration Deferral ---- 154
3. Pre–Arbitration Deferral ---- 157
D. Court Deferral ---- 160
1. Labor Cases ---- 160
2. Statutory Cases in the Collective Bargaining Context ---- 161

Chapter VI. Judicial Review of Labor Arbitration Awards ---- 172
A. Introduction ---- 172
B. Failure of the Award to ''Draw Its Essence'' From the Collective Agreement 175
C. Lack of Jurisdiction or Authority for the Award ---- 177
D. Party Misconduct, Arbitral Partiality, and Procedural Unfairness ---- 182
1. Party Misconduct ---- 183
2. Arbitral Partiality ---- 183
3. Procedural Unfairness ---- 185
E. Gross Error or Irrationality ---- 188
F. Violation of Law or Public Policy ---- 190
G. Incompleteness, Ambiguity, or Inconsistency ---- 194

Page

H. Individual Challenges: The Duty of Fair Representation ---- 195
I. Administrative and Judicial Review of Federal Sector Arbitration Decisions ---- 199

Chapter VII. The "Common Law" of the Arbitration Process ---- 202
A. Some Problems of Due Process and Individual Rights ---- 202
1. Notice ---- 204
2. Separate Representation and Third–Party Intervention ---- 206
3. Self–Incrimination ---- 209
4. Search and Seizure ---- 211
5. Confrontation and Cross–Examination 214
6. Surprise: Changed Issues, Arguments or Evidence ---- 216
7. Ex Parte Hearings ---- 219
8. The Agreed Case ---- 221
B. The Burden of Proof ---- 223
1. The Burden of Producing Evidence ---- 223
2. The Burden of Persuasion ---- 224
3. The Quantum of Proof ---- 225
C. Some Problems of Evidence ---- 227
1. The Applicability of Evidentiary Rules to Arbitration ---- 227
2. Hearsay ---- 229
3. The Plain Meaning Rule and Extrinsic Evidence ---- 231
4. Past Practice ---- 235
5. Past Employee Conduct ---- 240
6. Medical Evidence ---- 244
D. The Arbitration Award and Opinion ---- 246
1. Form and Content ---- 246
2. Time Limitations ---- 247

Page

D. The Arbitration Award and Opinion—Continued
   3. Arbitration Panels ---- 249
   4. The Opinion ---- 250
   5. Publication ---- 252
   6. Termination of the Arbitrator's Authority ---- 254
   7. Interpretation, Modification or Correction of the Award by the Arbitrator 256
   8. Actions to Enforce or Vacate an Arbitrator's Award ---- 257
E. Remedies ---- 259
   1. In General ---- 259
   2. Discharge Cases ---- 260
   3. Monetary Awards in Non–Discharge Cases ---- 261
   4. Calculation of the Amount of Damages 263
   5. Punitive Damages ---- 266
   6. Rights Without Remedies ---- 267

Chapter VIII. The Process of Contractual Interpretation ---- 269

A. The Role of Arbitral Precedent: Stare Decisis, Res Judicata, and Collateral Estoppel in Labor Arbitration ---- 270
   1. Legal Concepts of Precedent ---- 270
   2. Judicial Application of the Legal Concepts in Labor Arbitration ---- 272
   3. Arbitral Approaches ---- 273
   4. Persuasive Authority ---- 275
B. The Arbitration Clause and Its Meaning: Arbitrability From the Arbitrator's Point of View ---- 279
   1. Substantive Arbitrability ---- 279

Page

B. The Arbitration Clause and Its Meaning: Arbitrability From the Arbitrator's Point of View—Continued
   2. Procedural Arbitrability ---------- 284
C. Principles of Interpretation ---------- 290
   1. If the Relevant Language is Clear and Unambiguous, the Arbitrator Should Apply It Without Recourse to Other Indications of Intent ---------- 291
   2. The Sounds of Silence: Interpretation Without Specific Language ---------- 292
   3. Arbitrators Should Avoid Interpretations that Would Bring the Contract Into Conflict With Positive Law ---------- 294
   4. Specific Language Controls General Language ---------- 294
   5. Arbitrators Should Construe Ambiguous Language in Context ---------- 295
   6. Arbitrators Should Give Words Their Normal Meaning Absent Proof that the Parties Intended Some Other Meaning ---------- 296
   7. Arbitrators Should Construe Ambiguous Language Against the Drafter ---------- 296
   8. Arbitrators Should Avoid Interpretations that Would Create a Forfeiture 297
   9. Arbitrators Should Avoid Interpretations that Would Produce Harsh, Absurd or Nonsensical Results, if Another Interpretation Would Lead to Just and Reasonable Results ---------- 298

Page

Chapter IX. The Subject Matter of Labor Arbitration ---- 300
A. Discipline and Discharge ---- 300
1. The Just Cause Principle ---- 301
2. Common Reasons for Discipline and Requirements for Just Cause ---- 305
3. Off–Duty Conduct ---- 307
B. Management Rights ---- 309
C. Seniority ---- 311
D. Wages and Hours ---- 313
1. Wage Disputes ---- 313
2. Hours Disputes ---- 316
E. Fringe Benefits ---- 317
F. Subcontracting ---- 321
G. Union Security ---- 324
H. Occupational Safety and Health ---- 326

PART II. EMPLOYMENT ARBITRATION

Chapter X. Arbitration of Statutory Rights ---- 330
A. The Role of the Federal Arbitration Act ---- 330
1. Introduction ---- 330
2. The Gilmer Decision ---- 332
B. Post-Gilmer Developments ---- 335
C. Special Legal Concerns ---- 338
1. FAA Section 1 ---- 339
2. Impact of Title VII and the Civil Rights Act of 1991 ---- 340
3. Effective Vindication of Statutory Rights ---- 343
a. An Example: Hooters ---- 343
b. Costs ---- 346
c. Availability of Statutory Remedies ---- 350

Page

C. Special Legal Concerns—Continued
4. Rights of Third Parties ---- 352
5. Collective Actions ---- 353

Chapter XI. Enforcing Individual Agreements ---- 355
A. Introduction ---- 355
B. Application of State Contract Law ---- 356
1. Notice ---- 356
2. Assent ---- 358
3. Consideration ---- 361
4. Unconscionability ---- 364

Chapter XII. Special Procedural Concerns ---- 367
A. The Employment Arbitration Profession ---- 367
B. Selecting an Arbitrator ---- 368
1. Disclosure Obligations ---- 369
2. Consequences of a Failure to Disclose ---- 371
C. Discovery ---- 372
D. The Burden and Quantum of Proof ---- 374
E. Dispositive Motions ---- 376
F. Form of the Award ---- 377
G. Confidentiality ---- 379
H. Judicial Review ---- 380

APPENDICES

App.
A. AAA Labor Arbitration Rules ---- 386
B. AAA Expedited Labor Arbitration Procedures ---- 405
C. AAA Employment Arbitration Rules and Mediation Procedures ---- 409
D. AAA Forms ---- 448
E. FMCS Arbitration Policies and Procedures 458

App.		Page
F.	FMCS Expedited Arbitration Policies and Procedures	475
G.	FMCS Forms	478
H.	Code of Professional Responsibility for Arbitrators of Labor–Management Disputes	482
I.	The Federal Arbitration Act	508
J.	Uniform Arbitration Act	517
K.	A Due Process Protocol for Mediation and Arbitration of Statutory Disputes Arising Out of the Employment Relationship	538

INDEX 547